Federal Communications Commission

To Whom It May Concern:

Reference Docket 99-25

I'm writing because of my concern regarding our local LPFM radio station, in Dallas, Oregon.

This radio station has taken an active role in our community by keeping us informed about news, events and programs for all ages.

It has come to my attention that the reason for the interference is because of another station in Portland, Oregon. This is 60 miles away, but on the same frequency. Portland certainly has no benefit to our local community.

Searching for details has led me to what is called the MITRE report. According to the information I have received, and I am in no way an expert, it seems as though the MITRE report was not followed, resulting in this dilemma.

If the MITRE report is followed and Congress allows the FCC to remove the third adjacent channel rule it should result in our station moving to a clear frequency. Thus solves the problem. Benefiting our local community.

I strongly support the recommendations of the MITRE report and ask that the Commission recommend to Congress the need to remove the third adjacent channel rule.

Sincerely

Lois Crowe
